Ballet I

This wonderful world is the start of a life-long passion for this art form. This serves as the foundational building block to create a strong versatile dancer. The curriculum allows steps to be introduced as the body is ready, making the dancer successful. Correct terminology is used and correct body placement is emphasized for creating both beautiful lines and keeping injury free. Your dancer will keep a dance journal which they will bring to each class. The journal allows them to keep track of steps that have made them proud. Uniform required and available for purchase.

Ballet II

As dancers continue their study they begin to focus on their lines, straight knees, and turn out from the hip – that starts to become the dancers responsibility. A dancer is becoming more aware of finding the “perfect” line, and feeling if they are on the right tract. During this year we talk about the emotion behind the line, and we help them discover their “performance”. We continue the journal in Ballet II, along with noting what made them proud in class, they also add what they learned.
